LOCAL & GENERAL

Miss Laura Smith was a Calgary visitor over the week-end.

Bill McFarquhar visited with his parents in Calgary on Sunday.

Miss M. Saugstad visited the southern city during the week-end. Don't forget the Ladies Aid Bazaar on Saturday, November 26th in the Opera House.

Reserve December 9th for "Go-Getters' Night." Full particulars next week.

Miss Tena McLean, R.N. went to Calgary last week to again take up her profession.

Messrs. Frank Rayner and W. R. Hartley visited Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Smith, west of town on Sunday.

The annual meeting of Didsbury Agricultural Society will be held in C. E. Reiber's office on Saturday, December 3rd at 2 p.m.

The Westcott W.I. postponed their bazaar which was to have been held last Friday. It will be held this Friday, November 25th.

Frank Bell has taken over the premises formerly occupied by the Chamberlin secondhand store. He is displaying a new stock of Renfrew goods.

The Business Girls Club will meet next Tuesday evening for bridge at the home of Miss Evelyn Liesemer. Those unable to attend are asked to phone the hostess.

Frank Heselton, Bert Fisher and Jack Topper returned last Friday from their hunting trip back west. They were successful in bagging a deer, but Frank says the snow is too crusty for good hunting.

Mr. Harold Reiber underwent an operation for appendicitis this week, which, we are pleased to report was successful. We are also pleased to state that Mr. Sam Reiber, who was taken to the Calgary hospital last week, was able to return to his home at Olds on Tuesday.

Boys and girls representing winning clubs of the four western provinces in the annual fairs, attended the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto last week. In the Alberta group were boys from the Olds Dairy Cattle Club, the Fahler Beef Cattle Club, the Grande Prairie Swine Club, and the Willingdon Grain Club.

Two familiar faces present at local week-end bridges were those of Mrs. J. MacDonell, of California, and Mrs. R. Horne, of Edmonton, better known to Didsbury people by their maiden names of Anna and Kay Eubank. They are at present visiting at the home of their parents here. Miss Nellie Wilson entertained at three tables of bridge Saturday evening in their honor. Miss M. Lowrie and Mrs. J. Floury were the prize-winners. The Misses Laura and Lucille Smith also entertained the visitors with four tables of cards Monday evening, Mrs. A. Fisher and Miss B. Kendrick carrying off the honors.

Demise.

The people of Didsbury were considerably shocked Wednesday morning to hear of the death of Miss Mildred Roper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Roper, who died the previous evening in the Holy Cross Hospital.

The girl collapsed in a Calgary cafe and according to investigations it was found that she had apparently drunk strychnine, a small bottle of the poison being found in her purse.

Miss Roper had been working in Calgary for some time. She previously attended school at Didsbury and was well thought of by the scholars.

The remains will be brought to Didsbury and the funeral will take place Friday afternoon.

She is survived by her father and mother, two sisters and one brother. The people of Didsbury feel deep sympathy for the family in their sad bereavement.

Didsbury Chautauqua Commences Wednesday.

The Chautauqua, which has always been very popular with Didsbury audiences, opens for its fourth season next Wednesday evening.

The program this year appears to be of the highest class and should appeal to the most critical of concert goers.

On the first night, Sorrentino and his Venetian Strollers will give a musical entertainment. This is a rare combination of artists who present both vocal and instrumental music in such a way that it can be enjoyed by all.

On Thursday afternoon the children (and big folk too) will be delighted with Sue Hastings' Marionettes in "Little Black Sambo," "Puss in Boots" and other novelties.

In the evening the play, "New Brooms" will be presented by a group of high-class players. The play has had a record-breaking success in all the larger cities. It will be appreciated by all, and its good, wholesome fun is replete with hearty laughs.

On Friday afternoon the Empire Trio is offered in music and entertainment. Joe Marks is an Alberta boy who has attained musical fame with his violin. Nora Tree, dramatic soprano, of London, England, is very popular, and both artists have established names for themselves over the radio. The third member, Will Hattig, Australian comedian, is not only funny but clever, especially in his novel musical numbers.

In the evening the Empire Trio will give a prelude, and Judge Alden, one of the foremost speakers in the world will speak on "The Needs of The Hour."

The grand finale Saturday evening will be a play, "The Mender," which is sure to appeal, as it is claimed to be one of the strongest features presented on the Chautauqua circuit.

This series of high class entertainments is only made possible by a committee of public-spirited farmers and business men, who realize that Hockey Boys Organize.

The local hockey fans and players got together Friday night at the C.I.P.H. waiting room and organized for the coming season.

The following officers were elected: Hon. President, Mr. H. W. Chambers; President, Mr. W. G. Liesemer; Secretary-Treas., Mr. J. W. Hatten; Manager, Mr. G. Julien.

The boys anticipate being able to get together a good team again this season. Cook and Johnson, who have moved away, will not be available, but there are several promising young players coming along, and the strength of the team is not likely to be impaired.

Enlarged Municipal Areas Not Favorable.

The question of enlarged municipal areas which has been proposed by the provincial government, was very thoroughly discussed at the convention of the Association of Municipalities held in Calgary last week. The meeting was one of the most representative ever held by the Association, there being over 250 delegates present, along with a large number of visitors.

The proposal was supported by Premier Brownlee and other members of the government, but failed to receive much support from the convention. When the question was brought to a vote, the proposal was defeated by more than a two-thirds majority.

Monetary Systems.

Individuals the world over have always discussed money. They have always been interested in money. But the vast majority of people in years gone by never bothered their heads very much about monetary systems, and how they worked. They knew that their country was on "a gold standard," but they did not trouble to find out and understand just what that meant. They knew that Governments and banks issued paper bills and that these bills were money. But the main thing one and all were concerned about was how many of these bills they could get in return for the products or the services they had to sell, and how far those same bills would go in buying the goods or services they found it necessary to buy. Of the system behind the issue of these paper bills the average person knew little and cared less.

Today this indifference has disappeared like so many other things in this rapidly changing world. People are still interested in money, how to get, how to spend it, and what it will purchase for them. But they also want to know all about the system back of the issue, circulation, and exchange of money. The people of the world have been awakened with a jolt to a realization that the monetary system is not working as it should work in the interest and welfare of mankind, and we hear the opinion expressed on every hand that money has become the master and not the servant of mankind; that instead of remaining a mere convenience in order to expedite the exchange of the world's commodities and services, it has itself become a commodity; and, that being the case, the people want to know who controls the production of that commodity—money.

As a result of this aroused interest, everybody is talking about monetary systems. People are debating the subject whether they understand it or not. The number of theories, opinions, suggestions advanced are legion; they far out-numbered all the monetary and banking systems of the world. Much of what is said, and is even being soberly advanced as a panacea for the world's ills, is based in the most profound ignorance. The "cures" being offered would prove far worse than the disease they would seek to overcome.

Out of the confusion of ideas and suggestions and so-called solutions, one thing emerges. It is this: That one notion can itself remove the cause of its financial embarrassment and cure the malady from which it is suffering. There may be persons who honestly think that their pet theory will work where all others have failed; that a nation can, of itself, remedy its own ills, and that even a subordinate state or province within a nation can do so, but all history proves the fallacy of any such notion.

In our dilemma, the safe thing to do is to take a middle-course, not to take the dictum of the banker on the one hand, nor the theories of the radical on the other hand, but rather to weigh well the opinions and advice of impartial students of world economies, men trained and having experience in the weighing of causes and effects, men who have no axe to grind, but who desire that solutions be reached based on solid facts and economic truth.

There are such men in most countries, and outstanding in this group in the world today is Professor Gustav Cassel, of Sweden. He is an originator, not merely an exponent of a great deal of modern economic thought. His soundness has been proved by central banks in many countries, by governments and by the League of Nations. His opinions cannot be lightly dismissed. He was invited to deliver the Rhodes Memorial Lectures this year at Oxford. There were three lectures dealing with the gold standard and the break-down of the world's monetary system. These lectures have now been published in book form.

One Canadian reviewer of this book says that Professor Cassel unites two worlds in these lectures. There are some of the cautious phrases and complicated qualifications to which one is accustomed in the writings of economists. He speaks as one having authority and evidently considers that his subject has been carried beyond the bounds of controversy. Professor Cassel first shows that gold has ceased to impart value to money and that its automatic regulation of the value of money has given place to bank policy as a means of regulation. "For a true understanding of the monetary system," says Professor Cassel, "it is of fundamental importance that we should make ourselves familiar with the fact that a national currency never is anything else than a paper currency and that the maintenance of a gold standard only means that this currency, by a deliberate monetary policy, is kept in a certain parity with gold." He goes on to show that the value of gold itself is then determined by the monetary policy of the leading gold country, and he lays the blame for the great fall in world prices upon the monetary restriction policy of France and the United States.

Professor Cassel's policy for the apocalyptic old gentlemen who will not entertain the notion of a "managed money" and talk largely about "sound money" by making it absolutely clear that we already have a managed money. In fact he attributes a great deal of our grief to the fact that not only is our money managed, but that it has been very badly managed. After pointing out the amount of intelligent co-operation that is needed to make even a reformed gold standard work, he concludes that gold must, in the circumstances, be regarded as singularly unsuitable for use as a standard of value.

Professor Cassel complains of the loose and unintelligent use of the word inflation, which does not mean what the plain think it means. An expansion of the legal basis for money does not necessarily involve inflation. Anyhow, he thinks that some inflation would be a good thing. "The best thing that the gold standard countries could do," he says, "would be immediately to start issuing inflation of their currencies." Remember, it is no crank who proclaims this, but one of the world's leading authorities, a mature man, and one whose influence has been established and proven.

U.S. Bank Failures

Cannot All Be Blamed On Business Depression Says Investigator

All American bank failures cannot be blamed on the business depression, Dr. Charles O. Hardy, of the Brookings Institute, reported after an intensive survey.

He estimated that in the decade 1921-1931 there were 8,784 bank insolvencies in the United States, or 29 per cent. of the number of banks in operation at the beginning of the period.

Hardy blamed "the inherent banking instability" on:

"The whole system of pyramiding a vast array of obligations which technically or practically are payable on demand on a slender basis of cash and an even slenderer basis in the form of stockholders' equity. This dependence for solvency is placed on assets which can only be liquidated by transfer or by wholesale destruction of monetary values."

He concluded his survey with the assertion that "while the United States is not the only important country in which banks become insolvent, it is the only one in which they are allowed to fail."

HAD RHEUMATISM FOR 20 YEARS

But None Since 1930

"This man must have something like record for suffering," he says. "Since 1910 up to 1930. That is 20 years—I have been a great sufferer with rheumatism. I am pleased to say that since 1930 up to date, I have been free from that dreadful pain, simply by taking Kruschen Salts—and nothing else." I am sure that 20 years is a long time to have that awful rheumatic pain about one."—W. P.

Your rheumatism is just like his and everyone else's. It is caused by sharp-edged uric acid crystals getting into your joints. Kruschen will dissolve those crystals away. Furthermore—if you keep up the "little daily dose" ever afterwards, it will never be possible for them to form again. Rheumatism will be gone for good.

French Premier Pays Homage To German War Dead

Premier Edouard Herriot, of France, paid tribute to the German war dead in an address dedicating a new municipal hospital.

"Here in Lens," Herriot said, "sleep 75,000 German war dead who were undoubtedly men asking only to live in tranquility. Let us confer on them the honors that we have conferred on our own dead. France has not hatred for her former enemies. What our country wants is a plan for pacific organization which will obtain from everyone a renunciation of arms."

War Debt Cancellation

United States Would Profit If They Would Agree To It

Senator Borah estimates that the economic depression has cost the United States $200,000,000 (about $150,000,000,000). Such calculations are necessarily conjectural, but the loss has certainly been fabulous, and must continue so long as the world's financial machinery is thrown hopelessly out of gear by the attempt to transfer huge payments of war debts. That is at bottom the justification of the seeming paradox that it will handsomely pay the United States to cancel her war debts. London Daily Telegraph.

Canadian Theatres Safe

Have Highest Rating in Respect To Fire Risk

Reports from Ottawa show that the theatres in Canada now have the highest rating in respect to fire risk of any property. This fact was brought out in the report just issued by J. Grove Smith, Dominion Fire Commissioner.

The report further shows that there were only 19 fires in theatres in the last year and not one of them was of a serious nature. The total fire loss was only $12,000.

The report gives high credit to the type of men engaged in the business of managing theatres in the Dominion. Mr. Smith stated that nowhere in the world did the managers take the precautions to safeguard their patrons as in Canada and particularly in Ontario. When one stops to think that over 3,000,000,000 feet of film was shown in the close on to a thousand theatres in Canada last year this small fire loss is remarkable. — St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Inter-Provincial Ploughing Match Held At Ottawa Was Attended By Thousands Of Spectators

It would seem that the present generation have by no means lost veneration for the oldest of all industries—the tilling of the soil and a demonstration of how this ancient history should be done in this day and generation can attract crowds as large as attend big league baseball or football games. An inter-provincial ploughing match was held recently at the Canadian Government Central Experimental Farm, on the outskirts of Ottawa, and many thousands attended to watch the competitive events during the four days the meet was held. On the last day more than 10,000 persons were present to see the finish of the final contests, when furrows were ploughed from one end to the other of the large field, as straight as a gun barrel. This ploughing match, which was open to horse and tractor ploughs, demonstrated that the farm horse is by no means on the way to join the Dodo or the Great Auk; indeed, the consensus among farmer folk is that the farm horse is steadily plodding his way back towards the plane of his former popularity.

The Inter-Provincial Ploughing match was formally opened by His Excellency the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, who tried his hand at ploughing a long, clean, straight furrow and made a good showing for an amateur. The ploughs used in the contests were naturally a substantial improvement on the first cast iron plough made in Canada more than 100 years ago. This distinction of making that implement belongs to Eustace Parsons, a native of Lisle, Brème County, New York. In 1824 he moved to Chippawa, Ontario, near Niagara Falls. He was poor, but had an idea that cast-iron ploughs would be more serviceable than those of wood and wrought iron, which were then in general use. He gathered together scrap iron, constructed a rude furnace and cast three ploughs, which proved to be models of lightness and durability. The demand for his ploughs soon became great. In 1827 he died at the age of 38 years. His business was carried on by a Mr. Macklin. In three years Parsons made a net profit on the sale of his ploughs of $6,000.

Birds Prove Menace To Sheep

Maggies Destroy Young Lambs In British Columbia

Brutal methods employed by magpies to secure food among the large flocks of sheep and lambs during spring are disclosed by A. Bryan Williams, British Columbia game commissioner, in his annual report.

When the lambs are only a few hours old the voracious magpies peck out their eyes, leaving them blind and helpless to die in agony. Then the birds feast on their young, tender lambs.

Bounties were paid on 3,427 magpies and warden killed an additional 1,389, a total of 4,812 last year, but the birds do not appear to be greatly diminished in number.

The commissioner recommends the total extinction of magpies and crows, the latter being almost as bad as magpies. Wardens shot 5,700 crows last year, also 51 eagles, 302 hawks, and 126 owls.

Mr. Williams describes wild domestic cats as a real menace. Domestic cats are resourceful in the wilds and quickly learn how to subsist on wild life. Young game birds and chickens fall easy prey to the cats.

New Style In Eggs

Pure White Shells and Pale Yellow Yolks Now Current

When we speak of good taste in eggs we usually mean gustatory, or at least, olfactory taste. But butter and egg men declare the visual taste is the selling appeal in eggs, new-laid eggs, fresh eggs—or eggs. These are, perhaps, more concerned than is the public in the announcement that correct style in eggs from the poultry yard this coming winter demands pure white shells and pale yellow yolks. L. E. Kilbourne, president of the United States Egg Merchants Association, is quoted as authority for this dictum, which makes it evident that esthetic considerations enter into the marketing of eggs. Of course, we Canadians have so many protective laws and inspectors always working that our eggs must be always in good taste for breakfast table markets. At least, legally, no unwarranted egg can enter a home unless duly branded according to class.

Still, we don't know where that Chicago expert gets his fashions for hens and their eggs. The egg public is only half over at the time. Farmers rarely have too much pasture, and the live stock will usually take care of any second or third cutting that a weary farmer does not care to harvest. Where alfalfa will grow there is no sound argument against it.—Farmer's Advocate.

New Process Being Perfected For Producing Synthetic Lumber Stronger Than Natural Product

Alfalfa Makes Good Pasture

Not Necessary For Farmer To Harvest Second Crop

We once heard a man say that he did not grow alfalfa because "it makes too much hay." Sometimes we think he was right. Ordinarily it is a fine thing to get a second and a third cut of alfalfa, but the best hay-making season is over when they come and curing is often a problem. This year, after taking off 100 loads of hay, we were not at all enthusiastic about a second cut. We had four fields that would have yielded another crop, but only two of them were harvested—the two smallest—and we made ourselves think that the other two were needed for pasture, as indeed they were for the pasture season was only half over at the time. Farmers rarely have too much pasture, and the live stock will usually take care of any second or third cutting that a weary farmer does not care to harvest. Where alfalfa will grow there is no sound argument against it.—Farmer's Advocate.

The Pride Of London

Life Guards Have Gone Back To Old Quarters

The Life Guards are once again back at their old barrack quarters in Knightsbridge. They have been stationed there for about 200 years. Tradition was broken the other day when for various military reasons, the Knightsbridge barracks, the oldest in the country, were vacated by the mounted six-foot troopers and taken over by a battalion of Foot Guards. Strangely enough, it has been London's modern traffic conditions that have restored the Life Guards to their old home. They are much closer to Whitehall at Knightsbridge, and their daily progress to and from mounting guard at the old Whitehall till-yard offers less obstruction to the roaring motor traffic. It is said the orders posted up inside the Whitehall sentry-boxes where the Life Guards mount guard are identically the same as they were more than three centuries ago.

A photograph taken at a recent social gathering in Scotland revealed that only one man was wearing a kilt, and he was an Englishman on his first visit to Scotland.

The steel industry has developed 1,600 kinds of alloy steel.

Waiting 50 years or more for commercial lumber to grow on the stump is no longer necessary, a report by a professor in Iowa State College to the American Chemical Society says. Any wood that now grows in the forest can be duplicated out of the refuse from American farm crops—corn stalks and cobs, straw and bagasse. The hardest of this synthetic wood, according to the report, closely resembles teak in appearance, as well as in durability, density and strength, while its cross-breaking coefficient is nearly double that of teak and almost equal to that of common steel. Variations of the process of manufacture produce "wood" as light and friable as cork.

One advantage of this synthetic product is that it takes less weeks to produce than it takes years for trees to reach commercial size. Another is that it can be made out of the refuse from food crops. Still another advantage is that lamination synthetic lumber can be molded into various dimensions, which saves labor costs. A house can be built out of this material, says the Iowa professor, at about the cost of one built out of natural lumber and will be stronger and less expensive to heat, a result of its better insulation. The cost of producing the hardest of this synthetic building material however is approximately $20 a ton, which seems for the time being to place it out of competition with forest products. As timber becomes scarcer and consequently more costly, and the methods of manufacturing synthetic wood are improved and thereby cheapened, this discrepancy in costs may be expected to diminish and ultimately to disappear.

Again chemistry has come to the aid of Nature and man. When the first ax was sunk into the primeval forest of America, a catamount could travel from the Atlantic to the Mississippi without ever seeing the sunlight. Waste in clearing off the forests—some of it inseparable from the progress of agriculture, some of it unparadoxically stupid and unnecessary—threatened to leave the United States with an inadequate timber supply. The slow process of reforestation was resorted to in order to forestall that calamity. The raising of lumber on Western cornfields and Southern cornfields beats reforestation all hollow.—Detroit Free Press.

An Aristocratic Horse

Valued At A Thousand Guineas Is One Of Costliest In World

One of the most beautiful, cleverest and costliest horses in the world is to be seen in Hyde Park's Rotten Row most mornings just now.

This horse belongs to Wilson Cross, chairman of the American Club in London, and president of an oil company. It is a full-manned, light-tailed bright chestnut, six years old, and valued at a thousand guineas, and Mr. Cross has just brought it from the United States, where it has been winning big prizes in a special class unknown to our horse shows.

It belongs to the type that Americans call a "five-paced horse," which means that in addition to the walk, trot and canter or gallop, it has been trained to two special intermediate paces—a walk and a trot in which the legs move all four in sequence instead of as two pairs.

This special gait is taught by American cowboys to their mounts because for long-distance riding it is as easy as an arm-chair. The rider being able to sit still in his saddle instead of rising to the motion of the horse. London Sunday Pictorial.

Something To Know

To prevent glass bowl from cracking when hot liquid or steamed fruit is poured into it, wring out a large flannel in warm water, fold in two and stand the bowl on this while pouring the hot liquid. Glass jars may be safeguarded when hot jam or preserve is poured into them by the same method. Using a number of jars are to be filled a piece cut from a warm blanket is convenient, as it is thick and does not require folding.

Canada's Flour Exports

Substantial Increase In Shipments To United Kingdom Is Expected

In 1931 Canada sent 2,225,460 barrels of flour to Great Britain out of a total importation by the British of 6,141,392 barrels. The United States sent 1,187,190 barrels. It is expected that Canada will increase substantially her exports of flour to the United Kingdom.

In 1931 Great Britain imported the equivalent of 250,466,000 bushels of wheat. With the flour and wheat preference granted through the agreements, the wheat exports from Canada to the United Kingdom are expected to increase by many millions of bushels.

And as the wheat industry is one of the chief keystones of Canadian prosperity, the advantages granted wheat and flour are hoped to prove important factors in the national recovery.

Government Financing.

Governments also "move in a mysterious way their wondrous to perform" in financing on the "sound money" theory.

Two or three weeks ago the dominion gov't. borrowed $35,000,000 from the banks at 4 per cent. It gave the banks treasury notes in return. The banks can deposit the notes with the government and get dominion bills in exchange, paying 3 per cent.

That is good business from the standpoint of the banks. They take in four dollars for three dollars paid out. The rate of profit is 33 1-3 per cent. In the long run they are in 1 per cent on $35,000,000 as the result of the transaction. The chief expense and trouble involved is that of making two cross-entries in the books.

The government of course is out the one per cent. In effect the dominion is paying one per cent for the privilege of issuing its own bills.
One per cent on $35,000,000 amounts to $350,000 per year added to the demands on the taxpayers.

A year ago the government loaned $1,500,000 to the C.P.R. without interest, in order to keep the shop-pen and the shophen at work.
That was an unusual use of the public credit, but entirely justified in the circumstances. Where it got the money is not stated. It is to be supposed and hoped that it simply printed and handed over the dominion bills, thus making the loan without cost to the country.

But if the government can supply interest-free money to a private corporation, which it did and rightly did in the circumstances, why not supply itself with interest-free money by issuing dominion bills when they are needed, and paying its obligations with them? Why should the government pay anybody one per cent for the privilege of issuing its own bills?—Edmonton Bulletin.

Jessie Topley, Lorraine Durrer,
Grace Loader and Annetta Shiels.

Joan Blondell Starred In "Miss Pinkerton."

Announced for starring honors in
"Miss Pinkerton," the new mystery thriller to be shown at the Opera House on Monday next for one performance only, Joan Blondell, vivacious little First National leading lady, began preparations for her new honors by holding a conference with the book's author, Mary Roberts Rinehart. The latter made a special trip to Hollywood to meet Miss Blondell.

"Miss Pinkerton" is the latest work of Mrs. Rinehart and one of the year's most sensational books.
It was snatched up by Warner Bros.
as an ideal vehicle in which to launch
Miss Blondell on her starring career following her stunning performances in "Blonde Crazy," "Union Depot,"
"The Crowd Rears" and "The Famous Ferguson Case."

Worldwide InterestIn 1933 Grain Show

That there is a worldwide interest in the World's Grain Show to be held at Regina next year, is very well indicated by the hundreds of references to it in the newspapers of every important typical of these countries from the Salisbury Agricultural Journal, of Rhodesia, in far off Africa. After giving an outline of the undertaking, the Journal says:
"It is interestingly hoped that our prominent maize (corn) growers will seize this golden opportunity of advertising their maize, and obtain an outlet for their pedigree seed and also represent the colony at the World's Show."

THE HOUSE OF DREAMS-COME-TRUE

— BY —

MARGARET FIEDLES
Author of
"The Splendid Police," "The Herald Of Far Road"
Hodder & Stoughton, Ltd., London.

CHAPTER XXXVI.—Continued.
With a little inarticulate cry she ran to him—to the place that was hers, now and for all time, against his heart—and his arms, that had been so long empty, held her—as though he would never let her go.

"Beloved of my heart!" he murmured. "Oh, my sweet—my sweet!"
They spoke but little. Only those foolish, tender words that seem so meaningless to those who are not lovers but which are pearls strung on a thread of gold to those who have a memory of rancor which will be theirs to keep and tell again when the beloved voice that uttered them shall sound no more.

CHAPTER XXXVII

"An House Not Made With Hands"
The landlord of the inn of the Green Dragon watched his two English visitors ride away up the steep road that led to Beirnefelds with unquestionable regret.

They had been lodging at the Green Dragon for the past fortnight, and he had discovered that English mildreds, whatever else they might be, were not niggardly with their money. They required a good deal of attention, it is true, and had a strange, outlandish predilection for numerous baths, demanding a quite unheard-of quantity of water for the same. And at all unlikely hours of the day, too—when returning from a ride or before going up to the castle to dine, mark you!

Still, they made no difficulty about paying—and paying handsomely—for all they wanted, and if a man chooses to spend his money upon the superfluous scrubbing of his epidermis, it is after all, his own affair!

And now the two English mildreds were taking their departure from the Green Dragon and, so the landlord understood, proposed to stay at the castle itself until their return to England.

It appeared that their lady-mother—who, it was rumoured in the village, was the daughter of an English archduke no less—was coming to Beirnefelds and there was much talk amongst the village girls of weddings and the like. Apparently the Green Dragon's two eccentric visitors, notwithstanding their altogether abnormal liking for soap and water, were much as most men in other respects and had lost their hearts to the two pretty English ladies living at the castle. So, no doubt, the "daughter of an English archduke, no less," was coming from England post haste to enquire into the suitability of the bride-elect—and also into the important point of the amount of the dowry each might be expected to bring her future husband.

There was no question that Lady Anne was certainly coming post haste—in reply to a series of joyful and imperative telegrams demanding that she should pack up and come to Beirnefelds immediately—"for we are all enjoying ourselves far too much to return to England at present," as Nick wired her with an iniquitous disregard for the cost per word of foreign telegrams. And Lady Anne, who always considered money well-spent if it purchased happiness, proceeded to wire back with equal extravagance that she was delighted to hear it and that she and her maid would start at once.

It was a very happy party that gathered round the table in the great dining-hall at Beirnefelds on the night of Lady Anne's arrival, and beneath all the surface laughter and gaiety lay the deep, quiet thanksgiving that only comes to those who have emerged out of the night of darkness and sorrow into a glorious sunlight of happiness and hope.

After dinner, in the soft, candle-lit dusk—for Peterson had never introduced the garish anomaly of electric light into the ancient castle—Jean sang to them in that quaintly appealing, husky voice of hers, simple tender folk-songs of the countryside, and finally, at a murmured request from Blaise, she gave them "The House Of Dreams."

It's a strange road leads to the House of Dreams.

To the House of Dreams-Come-True. Its hills are steep and its valleys deep, And salt with tears the Wayfarers weep.

The Wayfarers—I and you.

But there's sure a way to the House of Dreams.

To the House of Dreams-Come-True. We shall find it yet, ere the sun has set.

If we fare straight on come fine, come wet.

The Wayfarers—I and you.

As the last words died away in silence, she looked up and met Blaise's eyes. He was leaning against the piano, looking down at her with a tranquil happiness in his gaze.

"Our House of Dreams-Come-True, Jean, at last," he said softly.

She met his glance with one of utter trust.

"And we needn't ever fear, now, that it will tumble down. But oh, Blaise, if we had built on a rotten foundation, we should never have felt safe—not safe like this!"

"No. You were right, beloved—as you always have been, always will be." Then, very low, so that none but she should hear, "Thank God for you, my sweet!"

It was ultimately settled that the whole party should remain at Beirnefelds until the latter end of June, when they would all return to England together, and the two weddings should take place as soon as possible afterwards.

"But we won't have a double wedding," declared Jean. "It's always supposed to be unlucky."

"Do you believe in good and bad luck, then?" asked Lady Anne, smiling.

TOO MUCH ACID

● The right anti-acid offsets the harm otherwise done by excessive eating, drinking, and constant smoking, anything causing an acid condition. When "sunk" from such indulgences, Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will always straighten you out. A joy and comfort to hearty eaters, constant smokers. Get the genuine; substitutes don't act the same.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Made in Canada

"I don't know," Jean answered seriously. "But it's always just as well to be on the safe side. Anyway, we won't tempt Fate by running unnecessary risks."

"Besides, madonna," added Nick, "in the excitement of the moment we might get mixed and the parson hitch us up to the wrong people. The average nerve-strain attendant upon the role of bridegroom will be quite sufficient for me, thank you, without the added uncertainty as to whether I'm getting tied up to the right woman or not."

So spring lengthened out into summer, and, as the heat increased, boating and swimming on the big lake that nestled in a basin of the hills were added to the long rides and excursions with which they whittled away the pleasant, sunny days.

Ever afterwards, the memory of those tranquil months at Beirnefelds would linger in the minds of those who shared them as something rare and precious. It was as though for this little span of time, passed so far away from the noise and bustle of the big world, they had pulled their barges out of the busy fairway of the river and moored it in some quiet, shady backwater. Then, when they were rested and refreshed, they would be ready to face anew, with fresh strength and courage, the difficulties and dangers of mid-stream.

"I'm sorry it's so nearly over—this long, long holiday of ours," said Jean regretfully. "The only thing that reconciles me to the fact is that after we're married Blaise and I propose to spend at least six months out of every year at Beirnefelds."

Mountain View Notes

The Mona school teacher was seen riding a horse Sunday. She was taking advantage of the spring-like weather after a very strenuous hiking to school.

The monthly meeting of the W.L. was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Ed. Blain last Thursday. Owing to inclement weather several members were absent, but all are requested to attend the December meeting to be held in Community Hall, December 7th, when election of officers will be held and final arrangements made for the bazaar to be held in the Hall on December 9th. The members will decorate the Hall after the meeting. Following the bazaar a whist drive, dance and turkey raffle will be held. Everybody welcome.

Burnside Notes.

Lone Pine W.L. will hold their annual meeting Thursday, Dec. 1st.

Mr. Fred Metz spent Sunday with Mr. Bert Pross.

Mr. Leon Dell is visiting his sister Mrs. Sam Elliott.

Mr. W. Saunders spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Noah Eckel.

Mr. George Metz spent Sunday with Mr. Jim Jensen.

Miss Hazel Milne is visiting with friends in Calgary this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Elliott were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McCulloch last Saturday.

Mrs. Bitner and Gus have been spending a few days with Torrington friends.

Mrs. Lee Clark left Friday for Arionwood to visit her sister at that point.

Miss Whittle Spraggins and Mr. Otto Littner spent Sunday evening with Miss Alberta Metz.

Mr. Dave Jenkins is spending the winter with Mr. Jack Dundas at Alibonham.

Mr. Bob Springguy was a Sunday visitor at the home of Mr. George Metz.

Frank Dall and Robert Eckel were Sunday evening visitors at the D. L. Milne home.

The Community Club has resumed its Tuesday evening meetings in the Lone Pine Hall.

Everyone welcome to the chicken supper and program in Lone Pine Hall on Monday night, Nov. 28th.

The affair is under the auspices of the Lone Pine Sunday School 25c each, children under 10 free.

Word has been received here of the death in Vancouver Hospital of Mrs. John D. Greer, of Birken, B.C., formerly of this district. Moving here in 1916 from Lynn Valley, B.C., Mr. and Mrs. Greer farmed here till May, 1927, when Mrs. Greer's health failed and they moved back to B.C., later leaving at Birken, where they have resided till now. Both felt many warm friends here, who will learn with sincere regret of Mrs. Greer's death.

City Ruling Hard On Local Dairymen

Notices have been received by the local dairymen who ship cream for consumption as such in Calgary, to the effect that after January 1st they will be required to pay a license fee of $10.00. It is also required that all gutters, feedways and alleyways in barns be constructed of cement.

A meeting is being called at the Opera House on Tuesday, Nov. 29th to discuss the situation, and all the dairymen are asked to attend.

Boys Conference Huge Success

The Trail Rangers and Tuxis Boys district conference held in the Knox United Church last Wednesday was a huge success. Over a hundred boys and ten leaders, from Airdrie, Crossfield, Carstairs, Didsbury, Olds and Bowden attended the conference.

From 5 to 6 p.m. Mr. Reg. Rose, boys work secretary for Alberta, led the boys in an informal discussion about their group work and also taught them some new games.

The supper was provided by the Didsbury boys' mothers and served by the C.G.I.F. girls. It was very thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

The evening meeting, over which Mr. Bowman presided, began with a lively sing song, followed by short addresses of greetings from the representatives of the various towns.

Mr. Rose gave a splendid address entitled "The Religion Race." The meeting closed with the singing of a hymn, followed by the benediction, given by Mr. Armstrong.

The local boys take this opportunity of thanking the mothers for the food provided, and the C.G.I.F. girls for serving the supper.

Melvin Notes

Lancelot and Gladys Carlson were in Calgary last week.

Lennie is sporting a roadster these days.

Randall and Marion Johnston were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. J. Clarke on Sunday.

Ross and Dorothy Young spent Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. August Krebs.

The 'flu' is still lingering around this district, many families being confined to their homes.

We are pleased to hear that Mr. and Mrs. Adam Kouschuh's little daughter is improving and was brought home from the Hospital on Thursday.

A number of the young people were entertained to dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Krebs on Sunday in honor of Emil's birthday.
